OSLP4601 THAT I MAY ENJOY THE MOST UNLIMITED FREEDOM:WOMEN'S POLITICAL ACTIVISM IN EARLY 20TH CENTURY AMERICA 1 Hours

'THAT I MAY ENJOY THE MOST UNLIMITED FREEDOM:WOMEN'S POLITICAL ACTIVISM IN EARLY 20TH CENTURY AMERICA START DATE: August 7, 2024 END DATE: August 11, 2024 LOCATION: University of Oklahoma, Norman In a letter to Susan B. Anthony, her sister in the suffrage movement, Elizabeth Cady Stanton expressed how she longed for when St. Peter asked her where she wanted to sit, so she could reply, "Anywhere, so that I am neither a negro nor a woman. Confer on me, good angel, the glory of white manhood so that henceforth, sitting or standing, rising up or lying down, I may enjoy the most unlimited freedom." (December 23, 1859) Here, Stanton criticized the inequities of American democracy in the 19th century, but it was a fight with many shortcomings. Within the woman suffrage movement, there were injustices against BIPOC women, as well as working-class and immigrant women. In this course, we will address the multiple ways American women of different races and classes gained access (or at least attempted) to the American democracy. From the Populist movement to the Progressive Era, through World War I and the ratification of the 19th Amendment, we will learn about women within and outside of the parameters of suffrage. How did they define "freedom" and "equality"? How have those goals and movements evolved to present day? ENROLLMENT • Enrollment through your home campus; contact your OSLEP campus coordinator, Karen Youmans, for information • OSLEP provides all required reading materials at no additional cost-NO books to buy! • Housing and meals provided • In-person residential seminar

'THAT I MAY ENJOY THE MOST UNLIMITED FREEDOM:WOMEN'S POLITICAL ACTIVISM IN EARLY 20TH CENTURY AMERICA START DATE: August 7, 2024 END DATE: August 11, 2024 LOCATION: University of Oklahoma, Norman In a letter to Susan B. Anthony, her sister in the suffrage movement, Elizabeth Cady Stanton expressed how she longed for when St. Peter asked her where she wanted to sit, so she could reply, "Anywhere, so that I am neither a negro nor a woman. Confer on me, good angel, the glory of white manhood so that henceforth, sitting or standing, rising up or lying down, I may enjoy the most unlimited freedom." (December 23, 1859) Here, Stanton criticized the inequities of American democracy in the 19th century, but it was a fight with many shortcomings. Within the woman suffrage movement, there were injustices against BIPOC women, as well as working-class and immigrant women. In this course, we will address the multiple ways American women of different races and classes gained access (or at least attempted) to the American democracy. From the Populist movement to the Progressive Era, through World War I and the ratification of the 19th Amendment, we will learn about women within and outside of the parameters of suffrage. How did they define "freedom" and "equality"? How have those goals and movements evolved to present day? ENROLLMENT • Enrollment through your home campus; contact your OSLEP campus coordinator, Karen Youmans, for information • OSLEP provides all required reading materials at no additional cost-NO books to buy! • Housing and meals provided • In-person residential seminar

School of TheatreTHRE3523 DRAMATURGY*3 Hours

Explores historical, modern, and contemporary concepts relevant to performance and critical theory, and focuses on the thinking around semiotics - the aesthetics of language and visual communication - and discourse surrounding contemporary technologies and multimedia formats. Draws from the disciplines of linguistics, anthropology, sociology, psychoanalysis, and literary theory. Contains equal parts reading and discussion; viewing of recorded performance; and creation of short original performance or design work. Cross-listed with ENGL 4453.
